

Success Framework - goals

Supporting rigorous research and analysis to improve the evidence base

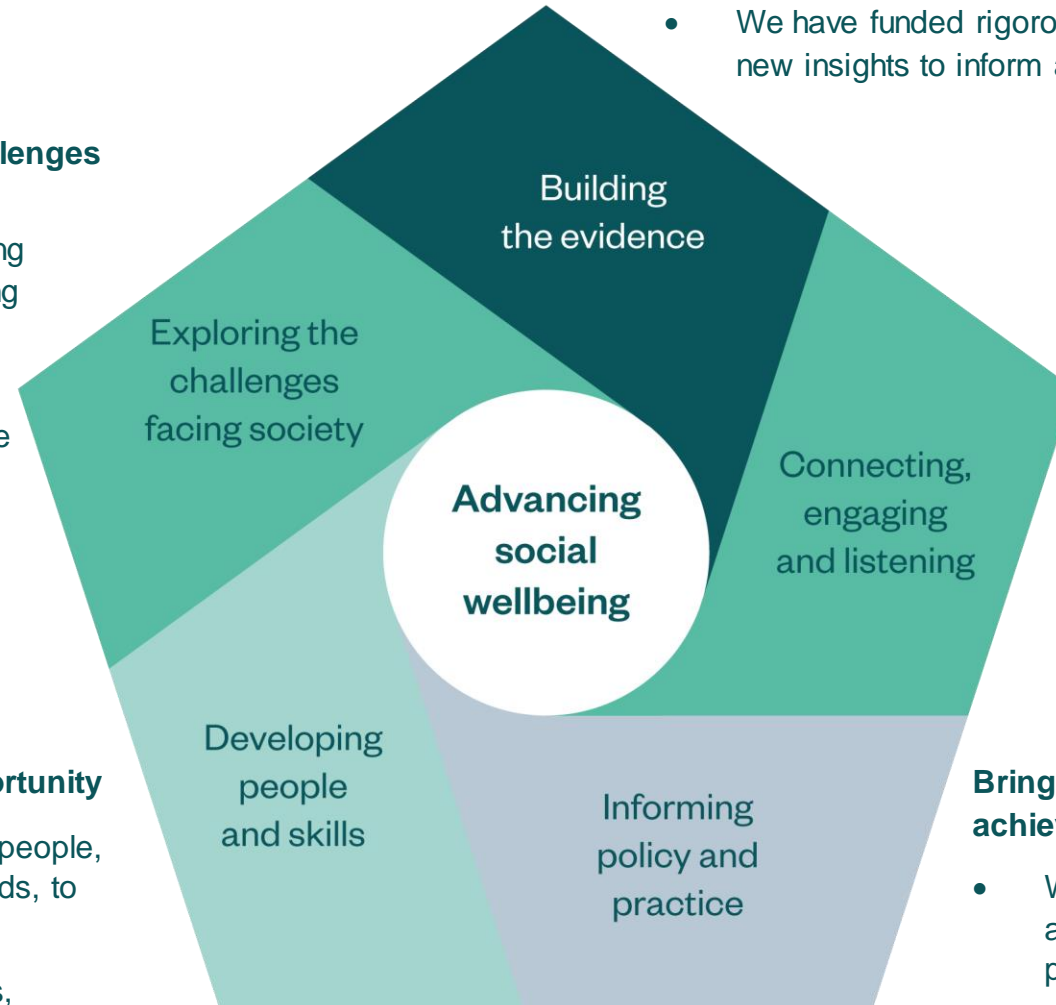

- We have supported the collection and use of robust data and evidence which has improved understanding of the issues affecting people's lives.
- We have funded rigorous research and analysis which has provided new insights to inform and improve social policy and practice.

Identify and explore interconnected social challenges

- We have identified and improved understanding of trends that are shaping society by convening conversations with diverse voices and undertaking effective horizon scanning.
- We have supported research that explores the interconnections between different aspects of people's lives by facilitating collaboration between those with different perspectives.

Developing people and skills to enable opportunity

- We have provided opportunities for young people, particularly from disadvantaged backgrounds, to develop skills in research.
- We have funded people as well as projects, supporting and sustaining the career trajectories of talented researchers.

Convene, connect and listen to inform debate

- We have enabled researchers, policymakers and practitioners to come together to talk, to explore key issues affecting society and to identify ways to improve societal outcomes.
- We have listened and engaged diverse publics and this has helped to inform dialogue and debate.

Bringing evidence to inform policy and practice to achieve meaningful change

- We have identified opportunities for evidence and analysis to be used to inform effective and just policy and practice.
- We have fostered efforts to ensure that changes to policy and practice are evidence-based and well-evaluated.
